

Wild Child

Sereni & Shentel have thus far made our Blair Waldorf dreams a reality with their wide range of customised headbands. This time, the two larger-than-life girls collaborate with Australian artist Zoe Patterson to create their third Artist Series collection. And what we love about it? The eccentric animal illustrations printed on silk as its main feature on their popular Block Party headband.

To Have and to Hold

Famed for his skill, craftsmanship and highly innovative approach to women's fashion, Bernard Chandran has sourced some of his iconic bridal outfits created throughout his award-winning career, for display within the The Contemporary Malay Wedding at the Sultan Abu Bakar Museum, Kuantan Pahang.

Exploring Chandran's contemporary interpretations of traditional wedding attire, the exhibition has a discerning selection of his own past and present designs. And after what we saw, we bet you'll be dreaming of a wedding of his elegant touch. The exhibition ends on 27th February 2014.

The NEWGEN

This month, the London Fashion Week will see nine NEWGEN sponsored young talents showcasing their Spring/Summer 2014 collections. Funded by TOPSHOP, the British Fashion Council made their selection by identifying the designer's creativity and unique designs. Since its inception in 1993, NEWGEN has supported renowned designers alike; Alexander McQueen, Christopher Kane, Peter Pilotto and many more. Make sure to be on the lookout for these emerging fashion icons.
